New Co-operation Of C.P.R. and C.N.R. Coming, Says Report

Wide Measures to Be Added to Those Already Operating, States Toronto Globe's Ottawa Correspondent

More Pooling Of Passenger Services

Canadian Press
Toronto, Jan. 12.—In a special dispatch from its Ottawa correspondent, The Toronto Globe, today said substantial measures of co-operation between the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways would be undertaken "almost at once."

The newspaper said the measures would include pooling passenger services where such steps have not been taken already, co-operation in the telegraph services, joint use of some terminals and rolling stock, rearrangement of schedules and abandonment of some stretches where lines of the two systems run parallel.

The report the measures of co-operation already in force are to be substantially widened came soon after the taking over of their duties by the new trustees of the C. N. R. Chairman C. P. Fullerton and his colleagues, F. K. Morrow and E. Labelle, took office at the New Year and have been at work since.

States Newfoundland Views in London

The British Government knows at first hand the views of Newfoundlanders on the change from elective to commission government. During his visit to London this week, Premier Alderdice, above, called on Premier MacDonald and they had a talk. The island is soon to pass under control of a commission of three men.

Japanese Stirred By Admiral's Statement

Commander of Fleet Quoted By Magazine as Saying U.S. Trying to Encircle Japan; Navy Department Investigates

Associated Press
Tokyo, Jan. 12.—A Navy Office spokesman today cast doubt on the veracity of an interview attributed to Vice-Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu, commander of the navy's combined fleets, in The Gendai Magazine.

The magazine quoted the admiral as saying Japan must prepare "and is preparing to defend herself against what appears to me to be America's policy of hostile encircling Japan by every possible means."

FLIGHT RECALLED
Instances of encirclement, the interview cited, were Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's solitary flight along the Kurile Islands in the summer of 1931, and Harold G. Bromley's abortive attempt to fly the Pacific in 1930.

"I may be mistaken, but I think it is possible they were spying on those islands," the interview said.

The interview referred to the resumption of Russo-American relations and the Soviet's "perfection of armaments in the Far East, where they have stationed a strong army and a powerful air force."

"If the white peoples consider themselves superior to the Japanese, we must fight them. If they abandon their assumed superiority and admit all are human—regardless of race—and equally sons of God, then there will be real world peace."

MORE SMITHS THAN JONESES

New Directory Lists Smith as Commonest Name in Victoria; Plenty of Colors, Many Fish and Several Red-heads

Smiths lead with nearly a two to one majority in the new Wrigley's Directory for Greater Victoria, just issued to cover the years 1933-34.

There are exactly 362 people by the name of Smith listed in the book and this does not include all the women and children. Including those who spell it Smythe and Smyth, the total is 370.

A poor second are the Joneses with 214, but the Browns may dispute the title, while in the next few places are the Whites, the Millers, the Martins and the Campbells with about 125 each, and the Johnsons with 111.

A special class goes to the MacDonalds, the Macdonalds and the MacDonells, which run 133 all told and would take sixth place if all spelled alike.

The Robinsons, Walkers, Moores and Woods are round about the 100 mark. There are many uncommon names, including Birthelette, Bulger, Bullinck, Mass, Whitten, Zolotoch, Zile, Zuck, Zandrea, Zaeli, Tourlette and Tow.

The first name in the book starts with a double "A," being Aaronson, and the last starts with the twenty-sixth and twenty-third letters of the alphabet, Zwiager.

GASOLINE PRICES DOWN IN TORONTO

Toronto, Jan. 12.—Gasoline prices tumbled today throughout Toronto, major companies reducing their product from 2 1/2 cents a gallon to 16 1/2 cents and less. The price-slashing was said by more officials of the larger companies to be a temporary measure to defeat what they called "irresponsible dealers" who, they said, were offering low-grade gasoline at cheap figures.

A factor in the price war was said to be the wide distribution of United States gasoline. Some U.S. companies with large surpluses on hand "dumping" the surplus on the Canadian market.

FLIERS GREETED AT HONOLULU

Thirty Men Who Flew Six Big Planes From California Are Entertained

Honolulu, Jan. 12.—Lieut.-Commander Kneifer McGinnis and his twenty-nine officers and men of the Pacific's newest ocean-spanning planes, greeted after their twenty-four-hour record-breaking non-stop formation flight from San Francisco to Hawaii, faced rounds of entertainment here today.

The six seaplanes alighted on the waters of Pearl Harbor yesterday afternoon, the last coming to rest at 3:07 p.m., Pacific standard time.

Through darkness, fog and other hazards of overseas flying for 2,400 statute or land miles, the squadron came through without a slip on what the naval officers insisted was merely a "routine movement" and Commander McGinnis described as "just another all-night hop."

REGULAR SERVICE SOON
Intense interest was evidenced in the declaration of Delegate Lincoln McCandless of Hawaii in Washington that the success of the flight paved the way for regular airmail and passenger service to the United States mainland "in the near future."

All Honolulu roared and screamed with the din of welcome yesterday afternoon as the big planes loomed out of the northeast, thundered past Koko Head, over picturesque Diamond Head and the glittering sands of Waikiki and on to the gentle waters of Pearl Harbor.

The over-all elapsed time of the planes in the air was twenty-six hours and twenty-one minutes; but the flying, while in the next few places are the Whites, the Millers, the Martins and the Campbells with about 125 each, and the Johnsons with 111.

A special class goes to the MacDonalds, the Macdonalds and the MacDonells, which run 133 all told and would take sixth place if all spelled alike.

The Robinsons, Walkers, Moores and Woods are round about the 100 mark. There are many uncommon names, including Birthelette, Bulger, Bullinck, Mass, Whitten, Zolotoch, Zile, Zuck, Zandrea, Zaeli, Tourlette and Tow.

The first name in the book starts with a double "A," being Aaronson, and the last starts with the twenty-sixth and twenty-third letters of the alphabet, Zwiager.

There is a wide range of colors besides the 201 Browns, with 130 Whites, seventy-five Greens, sixty-four Grays, twenty-four Blacks, eight Blues, two Pinks and no reds, but several Red-heads.

There are five Fish, eleven Salmon, one Trout, eight Whiting, eight Herring, two Sturgeon, no cods but three (Turn to Page 2, Col. 6)

NEW CURRENCY MOVE IN THE U.S.

Associated Press
Washington, Jan. 12.—Attorney-General Cummings has submitted an opinion to President Roosevelt on the question of whether the government can impose the gold of the Federal Reserve system without legislation.

This became known today as the Capitol expectancy awaited a new move by the President in his gold control programme.

Should Mr. Roosevelt devalue the gold content of the dollar, he apparently wants the government to have the benefit of the added value of the $3,800,000,000 in gold held in the Federal Reserve system.

Addressing a joint meeting of livestock breeders and the board of trade here, Mr. Weir said he was hopeful the butter would be kept off the market. Two shipments were en route to Canada; one to Montreal at Vancouver and the other at Halifax.

Mr. Weir left here today for Ottawa.

Swedish Nobleman Is Visitor Here

Lewenhaupt, master of the house to the King of Sweden, as he gazed from the "port-hole of his cabin aboard the Swedish motorship Mirabooka" toward the Esquimaux this morning. Accompanied by the Countess, the nobleman of Sweden is making a voyage around the world aboard the Mirabooka.

"Although I have travelled all over the world, this is the first time I have ever been in Canada. I am greatly impressed by this coast," Count Lewenhaupt said. "So far we have had a wonderful trip, and my wife hasn't yet been seasick. She has proved a fine sailor."

NEW LEVIES ON LIQUOR IN U.S.

Roosevelt Hastens to Sign Bill and It is in Force To-day; $500,000,000 a Year

Associated Press
Washington, Jan. 12.—President Roosevelt today announced he had signed the $500,000,000 United States liquor tax bill shortly before midnight, thus making the major provisions of the measure applicable on today's sales.

The measure raised the levy on whiskey from $1.10 a gallon to $2. It was the first bill passed this session and Mr. Roosevelt lost no time in making it a law.

The measure is expected by treasury and congressional leaders to provide from $400,000,000 to more than $600,000,000 a year.

The act as passed by the Senate, with the amendments concurred in by the House, contains few changes from the text originally passed by the House last week. It places a tax of 42 per cent on distilled spirits and wine over 24 per cent alcohol content; 55 a barrel on beer, and rates on wines, depending on the alcohol content.

TO CARRY STAMPS
The new liquor tax act became effective today, with the exception of the stamp provision.

This requires a one-cent internal revenue stamp to be attached to every container of liquor to show the tax has been paid, taking effect in thirty days.

Snow Delays Hunt For Fliers

No Word Yet From Pilot and Fan Dancer Missing in Manitoba

Winnipeg, Jan. 12.—Jack Crosby, chief pilot of the Northwest Aeromarine Company, was weatherbound here today, unable to take off on a projected search flight for Pilot Bill May, missing with his passenger, Fay Baker, United States fan dancer, somewhere between The Pas and Winnipeg.

Light snow, which started during the night and continued today, delayed the take-off.

Miss Baker, hailing from Waterton, Wis., made visits by plane with Pilot May to northland mining towns to do her original fan dance. The plane left The Pas Monday en route to Winnipeg for Miss Baker to continue her tour, but no report of it has been heard.

French Chamber Is Adjourned As Bank Collapse Row Grows

Speaker Stops Sitting During Scene of Pandemonium; Premier Warns Nation of Threat of Coup d'etat

Canadian Press and Associated Press
Paris, Jan. 12.—Premier Camille Chautemps warned the nation today that the Royalist riots over the Stavisky scandal held the threat of a coup d'etat to establish a "directory."

Thousands of troops were held ready to march on Paris if necessary to stamp out the disorders which have occurred in a protest against alleged complicity by government officials in the Bayona pawnshop collapse, which cost the French public more than $40,000,000.

The president of the Chamber of Deputies adjourned the body suddenly this afternoon in the midst of a pandemonium, which broke out when Deputy Jean Yvonnegay charged that "the police assassinated" Serge Stavisky, founder of the pawnshop, to hush the case and protect higher-ups.

Premier Chautemps jumped up, waved his arms, and protested Stavisky killed himself when secret service operatives surrounded him in a villa at Chamonal last Monday and pledged he would make a "personal investigation of the affair."

The chamber previously had been suspended because of noise in the hall.

POLICE VERY BUSY
While the disorder continued in the Chamber of Deputies, the gendarmes of Paris made determined efforts to see to it that the embittered Royalists whom they had battled for hours on Tuesday and Thursday were kept away from the chamber.

Associated Press
Shanghai, Jan. 12.—Charges that authorities at Nanking are "deliberately murdering" Mr. and Mrs. Paul Noulens, hunger strikers, by refusing to grant their request for a retrial, were hurled today by Madame Sun Yat-sen.

The widow of China's first President has been asked by Noulens to care for their small son in the event of his death. Noulens is said to have been a member of the Canadian Communist Party.

The charges were contained in telegrams dispatched to Nationalist Government chiefs at Nanking.

The couple are now on a strange "fast to death" in the Nanking prison in protest against denial of repeated requests for a new trial.

Mr. Gore, a newspaper publisher, attributed ill-health as the reason for giving up the post.

Crew Jumps Up And Down on Deck

Portsmouth, Eng., Jan. 12.—The battleship Nelson was safely refloated shortly after 6 o'clock this evening after having been aground at the entrance of the harbor for nearly twelve hours.

Before the final successful effort several attempts had been made to refloat the 33,500-ton flagship of Admiral Sir William Boyle, commander-in-chief of the Home Fleet.

The crew of 1,600 was mustered on the morning and in an effort to create buoyancy jumped up and down in unison, taking orders from a leader who waved his arms like a bandmaster.

STERN SWUNG
Half a dozen destroyers dashed out from the dockyard and one by one swept past the Nelson at high speed in an effort to create a wash. This finally resulted in swinging the battleship around appreciably, but the bow remained embedded.

The Nelson was leaving with more than 1,000 officers and men to join other units of the fleet on a cruise to the West Indies.

The vessel stranded on the stony bottom at the narrow entrance to the harbor about an hour and a half after high tide at 7:29 o'clock this morning. Tugs raced to the ship's assistance.

Captain P. Macnamara is in charge of the Nelson, "wonder ship" of the British navy, six-inch guns, and the main armor belt is fourteen inches thick.

The Nelson and the Rodney are acknowledged the most powerful battleships ever built, and since the great powers have turned to treaties for the limitation of armaments they will probably never be equalled. Britain stipulated in signing the Washington Treaty that she be permitted to complete them.

Costing more than $32,000,000 each, the Nelson and Rodney are of radical design, the superstructure being grouped compactly amidships and their profile presenting a long, low, clean sweep. They carry nine sixteen-inch guns, the heaviest armament afloat, with 150 anti-aircraft guns, and their main armor belt is fourteen inches thick.

Their war-time complement is 1,360. The admiral who is affectionately known as "Ginger" Boyle, is a descendant of Samuel Pepys, whose diary made him famous.

FOR THREE MONTHS
The Nelson was fueled and stocked with food enough to last three months. She was scheduled to lead one contingent of the Home Fleet to the West Indies, remaining there until February 27 and then leaving for Gibraltar to join the remainder of the Home Fleet and the Mediterranean Fleet for combined exercises somewhere in the Atlantic.

PLAN TRAINING FOR IDLE MEN

Vocational Committee Formed; Dilworth Tells of Waste of Youth

Proposal for provisional occupational training to take care of men who are now unemployed was endorsed yesterday evening by a public meeting under the Men's Guild of Christ Church Cathedral at the Memorial Hall.

A committee, headed by W. Ellis, Ira Dilworth, Dean Quikinton, Capt. W. Brown and L. E. Good was formed to formulate plans for carrying the proposal into operation.

Mr. Dilworth spoke on the need of a broader philosophy of education to meet the needs of the emergent social conditions.

"One of the bitterest considerations of my work is that most of the young people who go through High School have no very great hope of getting into useful employment," said Mr. Dilworth. "As principal of the High School I have this situation brought home to me every day."

"We must face the fact that there is not much use in training young people over and over again for vocations which they will never enter."

"We cannot as a civilized country, as a Christian country, go on very much longer tolerating a system of things that makes it impossible or incredibly difficult to get the fundamental basic necessities of life. The mere training of people for vocations is not the greatest concern that faces society today. I present the philosophy that believes that there is a great deal more in life than bread and butter and creature comforts."

"I am in entire agreement with the judgment that education in times such as we have been passing through for the past three years should be extended and not curtailed. Educationists all over the continent have been saying the same thing for the past ten years, but we are now coming to the place where we must realize that, in order to save the youth of today so that they can be of some use to their country, we must do something more for them in the way of education."

"It seems to me that the educational philosophy worth while is a philosophy that will reach far down into the natures of these men and women and touch the springs of power there and help these powers to realize themselves."

"Every generation has a fine fury of enthusiasm as it comes up to the problem of life, but it grows less intense as the years of experience roll over the hills. It is that fine fury of enthusiasm that we are running the risk of throwing on the scrap heap today."

Mr. Dilworth congratulated those sponsoring the provisional educational proposal, and urged that although it must have a modest beginning it should have a broad background.

WANTS TO SEE GIRLS MARRIED

L. E. Good, who has conducted seamanship classes for unemployed men during the last year, declared there were enough jobs held in Victoria stores by girls who are not supporting their families to provide work for every young man in unemployment camps.

"As it is now, the young men are in the camps and the girls have the jobs," said Mr. Good. "If this situation were changed around we would have a social structure as it should be, that is, with the men working and the girls in the home. Then these girls would become wives and mothers and they should be and would become happy and contented instead of working as they are in stores."

"What is needed is expansion rather than contraction of educational opportunity," said Chairman Smith.

A woman in the audience declared the women were ahead of the men in the work under consideration, as they had already started provisional vocational training classes at the Y.W.C.A.

A. H. Hundelby, supervisor of the Citizens' Shelter and Recreation Rooms, pointed out that all the vocational educational equipment in the Boys' Central School annex and at the High School was lying idle six nights a week and could well be put to some use at present.

LIKE RACIAL SUICIDE

H. Crawford, superintendent of the Unemployment Service of Canada, declared that hundreds of thousands of young persons would be losing not only respect for the parents but all faith and zeal as a result of the present policy of allowing the unemployed youth of the country to drift in idleness and hopelessness.

"Youth is needed in every country and to allow it to stagnate is racial suicide," Mr. Crawford went on. "Every citizen should do everything in his power to stop this disintegration."

Canadian Press Correspondent in Washington Sees Little Likelihood of U.S. Senate Ratifying Pact With Canada

By Ken Clark, Canadian Press Staff Writer
Washington, Jan. 12.—Senator Key Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, this morning opened the case for ratification of the St. Lawrence Waterway treaty in the United States Senate.

The die was cast with apparently small chance of its falling favorably toward construction of a seaway from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic. Yet despite strong opposition, led by Senator Robert F. Wagner, Democrat New York, disinterested administration lieutenants of the treaty were hopeful some break would appear in the political set-up which would result in ratification.

Their hopes largely centred on some move by President Roosevelt to bring lukewarm Senators from the south and Atlantic states into line for the treaty. The Canadian Press learns definitely no such move is in immediate prospect.

CAMPAIGN PLEDGE

The politics of the situation is this: The President is personally pledged to the treaty as he has publicly explained and has carried out a campaign pledge in presenting it to the Senate for ratification. The administration is therefore in the position of being able to say to the Middle West, "We have tried to get your waterway for you," and to the people of New York State, "We have tried to get you 1,000,000 horsepower."

On the other hand Senators from states disinterested, some of whom will come up for re-election next fall, have an opportunity in talking and voting against the treaty to place themselves in a favorable light with their constituents. Further administration measures of all kinds have for a year been passed by a quiescent Senate, which becomes now slightly jealous of its right to check the course of the White House.

GAP SEEN

The split in Democratic ranks led by one of the most powerful of President Roosevelt's lieutenants, Mr. Wagner, is the first major demonstration against Rooseveltian policies since the President took office and it is believed here it is not of such a nature as to cause the administration to tempt fate by putting up the sort of bitter battle necessary to getting the treaty ratified.

Associated Press
Washington, Jan. 12.—Safely past its first big test in the United States House of Representatives by the narrowest of margins, the Roosevelt programme today faced its second big congressional hurdle—a contest over ratification of the St. Lawrence Waterway treaty with Canada.

Administration observers were informed early to-day that more than a score of Democratic Senators might desert President Roosevelt on his Great Lakes-to-Atlantic proposal, but that a group of independent Republicans might be able to help make up the necessary two-thirds vote to put it over.

OTTAWA WATCHES

Ottawa, Jan. 12.—If the United States Congress follows President Roosevelt's suggestion and ratifies the St. Lawrence Waterway scheme, the treaty will come before the Canadian Parliament this session for similar action. The understanding has been held until Washington had dealt with the treaty.

Engineers estimate it would take seven years to complete the seaway after the treaty had been ratified.

Although some of the power developed might be turned on earlier than that.

Rio de Janeiro, Jan. 12.—Seventy-eight persons were reported to-day to have drowned in floods which followed heavy rainstorms in Brazil and Argentina.

Eight were known to have been drowned in Rio de Janeiro. Unconfirmed reports from Mendoza, Argentina, said seventy had lost their lives and that widespread property damage was suffered in the Argentine regions. The raging Mendoza River in Argentina carried away bridges and washed out highways.

Canadian Press
Windsor, Ont., Jan. 12.—Professor Joslyn Rogers of the University of Toronto, who performed a post-mortem examination and analysis of the exhumed bodies of Buddy Stevens and Marie Godsell Pezari, Windsor shelling victims, testified at the inquiry into Border Shelter conditions to-day that he had found no trace of bichloride of mercury poisoning in either body.

B.C. Electric Company Further Discusses Subject With Employees

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Jan. 12.—Enforcement of the conciliation board's recommendation of a 5 per cent cut in the wages of street car men has been postponed indefinitely from January 16 to permit further discussions between the men and the company with a view to a possible amicable settlement of the disagreement. It was announced to-day by Jack Price, M.P.P.-elect, spokesman for the Street Railwaymen's Union.

Agreement was reached on this point following discussions between the advisory board of the street railway men and W. G. Murrin, president of the B.C. Electric Railway Co., when the decision of the men not to accept the finding of the majority of the conciliation board was placed before him.

It was hoped, with further time, to come to some agreement that would be acceptable to both parties, said Mr. Price. The men's advisory board was meeting again to-day to give further consideration to the matter.

Britain Raises Duty On Oats

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Jan. 12.—The United Kingdom has levied a new duty on oats and products, the Department of Trade and Commerce was advised from London to-day. The duty will be three shillings on 112 pounds on oats and seven shillings and sixpence on oat products per 112 pounds.

The former duty was 20 per cent ad valorem for both oats and oat products. It is assumed here the duty does not apply to empire countries since by Article One of the Great Britain-Canada agreement signed during the Imperial Economic Conference here in 1932, the United Kingdom guaranteed to admit free any empire products into its markets. Oats and oat products were in that class.

DUMP LEVY IS ORDERED REFUNDED

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Jan. 12.—A refund of dumping duty, amounting to $16.37, to the Commercial Twine Co. of Montreal, has been ordered by the Tariff Board in connection with application of the company entered for consideration of its appeal on Tuesday. The amount claimed by the company amounted to $17.17, of which 60 cents represented excise tax.

In delivering its judgment the board adhered to its ruling that the appraisers' bulletin, issued subsequent to the repeal by Parliament of Section 43 of the Customs Act, which exempts goods entitled to the British preferential tariff from operation of the dumping duty, had no longer any force or effect following the repeal of that section.

Vancover Wants Park Work Done

Vancouver, Jan. 12.—J. Fyfe Smith will head the Vancouver Parks Board for 1934. Commissioner E. O. Baynes was also nominated but withdrew.

The commissioners decided to suggest to Ottawa that if a programme of public works is planned as a relief measure, $124,500 could be spent in Vancouver in useful and permanent work.

Four undertakings are suggested: connecting up the seawall on the First Narrows side of St. John's Park, at a cost of $14,000; seawall and promenade at Brighton Point, $20,000; seawall and promenade at Second Beach, $22,000; and bridge to Deadman's Island, from Stanley Park, $22,000, and seawall and promenade at second beach, $22,000.

Settlers Return From Australia to England

Canadian Press
Melbourne, Australia, Jan. 12.—A large number of British emigrant settlers in the State of Victoria are only awaiting receipt of their compensation before returning to England. It was learned to-day, Settlers in certain parts of the state were destitute for a considerable time before the government of Australia and of the state agreed last November to give them compensation.

Out of a total of 300 affected, eighty have already left their holdings. One of them, fifty years of age, was asked what he would do when he got back home. He replied he supposed he would go on "the dole."

LIQUOR BOOKS READ

Cleveland, O., Jan. 12 (Associated Press).—Perhaps it's only an academic interest, but whatever the reason, Cleveland public library is being swamped these days by requests for books on brewing and distilling. "We had very few calls for these books until the heavy season," said Miss Mildred Stewart, head of the technology division, said.

SEEN AT BELLINGHAM

Bellingham, Wash., Jan. 12.—Perhaps the serpent which is said to have grown tired of cavorting in the waters around Vancouver Island and decided to pay Bellingham Bay a visit.

At least that is the version of Mrs. Margaret Mobilo, wife of Ray Mobilo, city fireman. They reported to-day their attention was attracted by a foam-flecked agitation. Watching closely they observed a huge black snake speeding, they said, through the water at powerboat speed. Because of the distance and the fact that whatever it was was nearly submerged, they were unable to catch a view of more than a large back, they said.

Mrs. Mobilo first thought the "thing" as she described it, was a whale but changed her mind.

Ottawa, Jan. 12.—William A. Pound, Deputy Minister of Fisheries, does not agree with the theory that big sea serpents grow from little geoducks eggs, advanced by a resident of Vancouver Island in their search for a genesis for "Caddy" and "Pen," much publicized sea monsters. Geoducks, the fishery expert says, are merely big clams. Sea serpents are well, they're sea serpents.

Like the Geoduck Dr. Pound shuts up tight when asked if he can offer any explanation for sea serpents. He admits he does not know what they are, but he does know they exist, and he does know about geoducks and insists there is no genealogical connection between them.

Other passengers aboard the ship at Victoria to-day are Mr. and Mrs. Teasdale Smith and Miss Jean Aruckle, on their way to Australia from northern Europe.

Andrews Scoffs At Sea Serpent Story

Caddy of Victoria fame has been described as the conventional sea serpent of old salt's tales, and is distinctly unlovely, having a camel-face.

Belligerent Bob of Loch Ness is suspected in some quarters of heinous deeds, including the slaughter of livestock like, how they originated, is not known. Nothing like her has ever been found."

"Both of the creatures are the result of faulty observation," Dr. Andrews declared, "perhaps on the parts of sincere persons who saw just what they had hoped to see." As for Caddy, the ocean's depths have been pretty thoroughly explored—at least as far down as any large form of animal life could exist. Nothing like her has ever been found."

New Measures to End Racketeering in U.S.

Associated Press
Washington, Jan. 12.—A comprehensive legislative programme designed to drive the racketeers out of business, headed by a proposal for consolidation of all federal enforcement agencies was before the United States Senate today. The report of the special committee which studied crime was presented yesterday. Among other proposals offered by the committee are those to place the shipment of firearms under strict federal supervision.

LONG SEARCH ENDS

Montreal, Jan. 12 (Canadian Press).—The Royal Canadian Mounted Police have done it again. It took six years, but they finally located Israel Slatkoff in Philadelphia and brought him here to face a charge of narcotic drug possession. He pleaded guilty. In 1927 Slatkoff jumped bail in an amount of $1,500, which was forfeited.

METHOD USED

The young doctor's method is to take infantile paralysis virus, a deadly infectious agent so small it cannot be seen even through a microscope, and treat it with formaline, a germ killer, to obtain the vaccine. The first step is to obtain the virus from the spinal cord of monkeys that have infantile paralysis. This virus is then treated with formalin and the resulting mixture or emulsion is then injected into the brains of healthy monkeys to determine whether it will infect them. Dr. Brody found it will not. The next step is vaccination. Dr. Brody discovered many monkeys develop "pretty good immunity."

IRELAND TO GET WHEAT FROM U.S.

Washington, Jan. 12.—Large purchases of United States wheat and increased buying here of barley and hops are forecast by Michael MacWhite, minister of the Irish Free State. Irish Free State whiskey would benefit through the lifting of restrictions by the federal alcohol control administration on American-type whiskey, the minister told newspapermen during a visit at the State Department yesterday.

SUPPORT LEGION PENSION CLAIMS

Local Branch Endorses Policy of Seeking Readjustments From Government

The Pro Patria Branch of the Canadian Legion decided at a meeting this week to support the efforts of the Provincial and Dominion commands to adopt in directing the attention of the Dominion Legislature to the serious condition of affairs now existing among veterans, pensioners and non-pensioners alike. "And be it further resolved, that the Federal Member of Parliament representing this constituency, be asked to give his unlimited support in the next session of the Dominion Parliament to any proposals that may be made by the Canadian Legion and kindred veteran organizations, that would tend to give Canada a more humane administration of pensions and greater consideration to the many difficulties that those who served the country in its time of need have had to suffer during the last few years."

J. H. Frank, president, and Lieut. General Sir Percy Lake were appointed delegates to the Dominion convention in Ottawa next month.

Occupants of this house fled to safety not a moment too soon as flooded waters ripped away the ravine bank and toppled the structure into the torrent which roared down the gulch at Verdugo Woodland, Calif. The car in the garage in the rear hung over the ravine, but did not fall into the flood.

Gains In Fight Against Infantile Paralysis

Hopes Are Based on New Vaccine Experiments of Dr. M. Brody, Young Canadian, in New York

By Raymond Crowley
Associated Press Staff Writer

New York, Jan. 12.—A young Canadian physician sat in a little laboratory room here today, his ears drummed by the chattering of monkeys dedicated to science, and labored on an experiment that arouses bright hopes for eventual victory in the long fight against infantile paralysis. Dr. Maurice Brody of Ottawa, who at thirty years of age has record of brilliant research behind him, has applied a "vaccine of formalized virus" to monkeys with good results in protecting them from the disease. He has more than half the human cripples the world over.

Dr. William H. Park, famous authority on public health, today pronounced Dr. Brody's work a "definite advance."

Dr. Brody, graduate of McGill University in 1928, is conducting his experiments at the Willard Parker Hospital on the East Side under the direction of Dr. Park.

CANADIAN PRESS

Vancouver, Jan. 12.—Hon. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, became Acting Premier of British Columbia yesterday morning when members of the cabinet held a final executive session at the courthouse here before five of them proceeded to Ottawa. Premier Pattullo, who is on his way east from Prince Rupert, was the only absentee. Departmental routine business occupied the cabinet this morning, according to Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, who has been Acting Premier up to this morning. The departing ministers distributed their duties among the three cabinet ministers not making the eastward trip. No action was taken on the appointment of Dr. W. A. Carrothers as chairman of the new Economic Council. Mr. Hart said Dr. Carrothers would carry on with the organization of the council which he has in hand, and has been attached to a department. Neither did the cabinet appoint a commissioner of fisheries.

DEATH OF BOY IS INVESTIGATED

Seattle, Jan. 12.—Prescott Marlon, fourteen-year-old boy, who was fatally wounded here Tuesday evening in a mysterious shooting, was shot with his own gun, an investigation yesterday by Chief of Detectives Luke S. May showed.

The weapon, with part of the stock broken off, was found by a newspaper reporter in a wooded lot a short distance from where the boy was found at a street intersection. The gun was dangling from a broken limb by its trigger, about waist high. The magazine of the gun and Prescott's flashlight were not found.

"It could have been an accident," May said, "like the familiar hunting accident where a man falls over his gun, or it catches on a twig. Remember, it was dark, pitch-dark, in there in the thick brush."

The boy's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Marlon, does not believe her son took his own life, insisting to officials it was an accident. May-to-day was working on several angles of the case in an effort to ascertain if the shot was fired, if the "trap" on which the gun hung was planned, and what the lad was doing that late so far from home, with a gun and flashlight.

ASKED FOR BREAD—GOT A STONE

Several hundreds of youthful representatives of various organizations in Vancouver met Premier Bennett at luncheon on Wednesday. It had been arranged so that the Prime Minister would have an opportunity of giving a message of inspiration to these young men. He had been asked to answer a number of important questions in which the youth of the country are vitally interested. Here are five of the questions:

1. What constructive plans has the government for immediate alleviation of unemployment?
2. Is it possible to subsidize new industries? If done, would it not create employment?
3. Will the government aid the youth of the nation to acquire and operate farm lands?
4. Can the government create further employment at home by more aid in creating foreign markets for the products of Canada, more particularly in the Far East?
5. Realizing as we do that interest rates are out of line with present business and wages, and that they are an unpayable burden on Canada, will the government in the near future take steps to reduce these rates within its control; thus lightening the rates which private business must pay, and also easing the burden of taxation?

According to The Vancouver Sun, Mr. Bennett ignored these questions altogether, but substituted a discussion of them with a "vapid and elementary lecture on money, a bit of oratorical charlatanism that would not intrigue the mind of anyone past puberty." Our contemporary observes that scores of fathers took their sons to this luncheon "so that the latter could hear the Prime Minister of Canada offer some inspirational leadership to the young people who are standing on the threshold of life." The Sun then proceeds:

It was the cruelest and most cold-blooded anti-climax to their hopes that could have been flung into their waiting faces.

It was the most inhuman instance of that inhuman act of substituting a stone for bread.

Mr. Bennett could not have knowingly so misinterpreted the wishes and desires of his youthful audience.

No living man would have had the brazen nerve to have deliberately affronted these thousand youths and chilled their thousand hearts with such childish and futile demagoguery.

Mr. Bennett simply did not understand their questions. He did not understand what they wanted. It did not sink into his uncomprehending soul that they were looking for something more than a few tricks of oratorical jugglery.

Never before has he so demonstrated his utter isolation from the humanities, his utter indifference to and aloofness from the feelings and hopes of his fellow citizens.

The most hopeful boy present could not but have been frozen to the heart by his attitude.

Youth, in Canada, still seems to stand alone.

What The Sun means, of course, is that Premier Bennett's mind is in a static condition. After more than three years in office he still seems to be woefully ignorant of the fact that an entirely new economic and social order has been thrust upon Canada and that entirely new methods are necessary to deal with it effectively. He has not done anything constructive and the people of the Dominion know nothing about his plans, if he has any at all, for the future. He tells the youth of Vancouver that we "must not use the credit of Canada indiscriminately." Does this mean that he is burnishing the spatter so that it will drop gently into the machinery of the Dominion-provincial conference which is to begin its deliberations next week?

Mr. Bennett obviously is blowing hot and cold on the question of a programme of public works as one means of relieving unemployment. He fears for the increase of the national debt. His statement that the Dominion government already had advanced $131,000,000 for unemployment relief naturally suggests the inquiry as to why, three years ago, he did not tackle the problem of the idle, then less than 200,000, as he promised to do when he campaigned in 1930. He said then that "the Conservative party is going to find work for all who are willing to work or perish in the attempt. I promise to end unemployment. There is no excuse for unemployment in a new country so richly endowed with natural resources as Canada." Mark carefully his words; he refers directly to all intents and purposes, there is little he can do because it is a world condition. Not a word did he say about a world condition in 1930.

What will be obvious to the average taxpayer is that if Mr. Bennett had accepted good advice three years ago and established a competent non-partisan commission to develop plans for dealing with the much less serious condition at that time, $131,000,000 might have been expended on undertakings of a productive nature and the number of unemployed at this time might have been very substantially lower than it is—and the Prime Minister might not have been faced, as he is now, with the prospect of an increase in the national debt.

Mr. Bennett is too late in the day. He missed his opportunity, and the people of Canada have suffered through his lack of understanding, or, as The Vancouver Sun very properly reminds him, "his utter isolation from the humanities, his utter indifference to and aloofness from the feelings and hopes of his fellow citizens." He comes to Vancouver and lets himself go on a dissertation about the history of money. He points with pride at a great meeting of the Board of Trade of that city to the fact that Canada now has a favorable trade balance in a turnover for the twelve months ending last November of less than $900,000,000 of a little more than $100,000,000 against an adverse balance for 1930 of about the same amount; but in that year the external business of Canada was worth approximately $2,400,000,000!

Now, there are a lot of hard-headed businessmen in the Vancouver Board of Trade's membership. Is it reasonable to suppose that these men felt that any compliment was being paid by the Prime Minister to their intelligence when he argued, by implication, that a business worth $900,000,000 and a favorable balance of $100,000,000 is better than a business worth $2,400,000,000 and an unfavorable balance of $100,000,000? Is the port of Vancouver better off in the matter of business now than it was in 1930 because of this favorable balance of which Mr. Bennett speaks? It is not necessary to ask other equally pertinent questions.

OUR FRIEND IN LOCH NESS

The editorial writer of The London Daily Mirror—known by his signature as W. M.—evidently is not much impressed by the stories of Scotland's very own sea serpent which has been kicking up a rare shindy in Loch Ness in recent weeks. His reference to this particular "monster," however, has brought him an avalanche of letters of which the following are representative:

TELLS "W. M."

"W. M." might feel very differently if he lived near Loch Ness.

He wouldn't then make fun of a peril that is admitted to be one, not only by the police, but by scientific men who know more of such things than your leader-writer. E. E. Coniston Road, Croydon.

DON'T KILL IT!

Let me add a word to the Loch Ness controversy. I wish to commend your plea that, if there is a curious creature lurking in the Loch, it should not be destroyed by the fools who will shoot or kill any rare animal.

For one thing, there's money in monsters! What would Whipsnade give for a live dinosaur? ZOOLOGIST.

MONEY FOR FUN

The idea of fishing for the Loch Ness monster appeals to me.

If Parliament would spend more public money in amusing the nation, we should feel we had better value for our tobacco and beer. M. D. MARRIOTT.

Northolt Road, Harrow, Middlesex.

OVERHEARD IN THE TUBE

I was traveling in the tube the other day and overheard a talk about the monster.

"The monster has been lying at the bottom of the Loch for hundreds of years and the Loch is very deep."

"The county council has been improving the roads in that district, and there has been a great deal of heavy blasting, which would disturb the monster from its sleep, and it just came up to see what all the noise was about." D. S.

The Winnipeg Free Press, incidentally, is watching with considerable satisfaction the family affairs of "Caddy" and "Penda." It said in last Tuesday's issue: "The British Columbia sea serpent is about to become a mother, according to a Victoria dispatch; a prompt response to the threat of competition from Scotland."

A FINE ACHIEVEMENT

Six United States Navy seaplanes, flying in formation, have crossed the Pacific from San Francisco to Honolulu. It is described as the greatest overseas mass flight in aviation history and the thirty officers and men who were responsible have something to their credit of which they may be justifiably proud.

The dispatch from Honolulu says the over-all elapsed time of the planes in the air was twenty-six hours and twenty-one minutes; but the flying time, in formation, from the Golden Gate across the perilous stretch of the Pacific to Pearl Harbor, was twenty-four hours and forty-five minutes, official time. The distance covered was 2,400 statute, or land, miles.

The aviation branch of our neighbor's navy—presuming it is not too much of a strain on the metaphorical—has stuck a brilliant feather in its cap and airmen everywhere will have their own feathered cap.

This achievement, incidentally, recalls the flight of General Balbo and his twenty-four Italian seaplanes from Italy to the Chicago World's Fair, and back. But the sequel will be quite different. Balbo got too much limelight in Italy for Premier Mussolini's liking and, after a respectable time had elapsed, was removed from his position of Minister of Aviation to an inferior colonial governorship. Lieutenant-Commander McGinnis, in charge of the United States "routine" flight from California to Hawaii, will probably get a promotion instead of a demotion.

But, then, the Rooseveltian conception of government is somewhat different from that which, while seemingly doing Italy good at the moment, is being pursued by Mussolini. Il Duce, of course, does permit King Victor to get his picture in the papers occasionally. But it always conveys the impression that it is a great concession.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

ITALY

The Ottawa Journal

Mussolini, who closed Italy's year with a deficit of about $250,000,000 and with badly declining trade, has come forward with a programme for nation-wide and simultaneous reduction of salaries and the cost of living, this as a step to retain export trade. Some of these dictatorships are beginning to not look so good. Incidentally, Mussolini's ideas about helping Italy are the precise opposite to President Roosevelt's ideas for helping the United States.

ABBREVIATING ENGLISH

The St. Thomas Times-Journal

A Los Angeles journalist offers through the agency of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, a suggestion terrifying in its implications. He has discovered that the word "the," being the most used in the English language, puts an economic burden on the press which is hard to bear. A savant in an Iowa university found after exhaustive study that it appeared over 500,000 times in 5,000,000 words of newspaper print. Now if instead of "the," newspapers used only the symbol "u"—lower case—80 per cent of the space and more than 80 per cent of the typesetting required for the full word would be saved. Moreover, if the whole paper were considered, one per cent of the white paper bill would be saved by the use of the symbol, while more than one per cent additional news or editorial matter would find space in the normal-sized paper.

Loose Ends

By all means look into the mirror, but not too far—Mickey is just an innocent little mouse in Vancouver. We have no crisis here and it's a pity—the plum tree warns us that something is just ahead.

IN THE MIRROR

PREMIER BENNETT, speaking in Vancouver this week, told the men of Canada that if they wanted to see who had plunged the country into debt, to take a careful look in the mirror every morning while shaving.

This is very sound advice. It is a good habit to look into the mirror every morning when shaving and to study the stranger pictured therein. Better still, go into a clothing shop where they have an arrangement of half a dozen mirrors, as I did to-day, and observe the profile of the person called W. M. Bennett. This is a sight you seldom see, which is probably merciful, for it is a grave shock to a sensitive, nervous system to realize what other people are looking at daily as you walk down the street. What the public endures in this way is seldom appreciated.

But apart from these grisly revelations, it is a good thing to look in the mirror and ponder what other fellow in there has been up to in the last twenty-five years or so. I commend this excellent practice to Mr. Bennett, who commends it to the public so earnestly. I wonder what great men really think of the fellows who look at them out of their shaving mirrors in the morning? I wonder if Mr. Bennett realizes that the people of Canada are only waiting for a chance to remove that gentleman in the mirror from office. I wonder if he realizes that it was this very mouth which promised to cure unemployment and to blast Canada's way into foreign markets three and a half years ago, and those eyes that flashed forth wrath at the blundering of the former government.

I wonder whether great men, when they look in the mirror in the morning, realize with a sickening sensation in their middles how mortal they are after all, how very like all the other fellows that are gazing into other mirrors the world over? Yes, it is a good idea to look carefully into the mirror in the mornings, but not too carefully. It will depress you too much during the day.

VULGARIAN

THE LOCAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN In Vancouver has passed a resolution thanking Mr. Walt Disney for inventing Mickey Mouse, and so providing good clean fun for the young. God bless the innocent unsuspecting minds of the Local Council of Women in Vancouver!

As a matter of fact, Mickey is often a very vulgar little mouse, and does the most disgraceful things you can imagine. Indeed, one sometimes wonders what type of men are employed in Hollywood to think up the devastating vulgarity of Mickey and his friends. But because Mickey is not human, he gets away with stunts which, in a living actor, would be instantly censured. Yes, while he is not human, he is humanity itself, a kind of jolly caricature of the whole human species. It is the fact that he acts like a man that makes him so delightful. If he acted like a mouse no one would pay any attention to him. And the public, the prim old ladies of the Local Council of Women of Vancouver, just revels in his honest vulgarity, though it would blush if anyone but Mickey presented it.

You thus see how civilized men and women really like this sort of thing, just as they did in the day of good old Rabelais, but are a little ashamed of themselves. They owe a great debt of gratitude to Mickey for presenting it in an innocent mousey fashion, which is approved as good clean fun by the Local Council of Women of Vancouver.

NO CRISIS

THE UNITED STATES COMMISSIONER of Education said a few days ago that his country was "faced with the greatest crisis in American education." Fortunately our school system hasn't broken down as badly as the Americans' and it is a very regrettable. If we had a crisis perhaps we should do something about it. And among all the things that need something done about them, none is more acutely in need of it than our education.

Of course, the conventional educationists won't admit anything of the sort. They will even deny the right of any ignorant man like me to discuss it. The trouble is that they are thinking of education in terms of education and thus find our present system admirable, whereas the ordinary man thinks of it in terms of life, and finds it hopeless. To the educationist in his ivory tower life doesn't mean much, but it means quite a bit to the rest of us; and it is clear to us on the outside that our education simply isn't preparing our children for life.

The great need in life is the ability to think. Information is unimportant, quickly forgotten and easily obtained as it is required, but if a man can think, there is scarcely anything he can't do. In this respect the average North American Indian before the coming of the white man was better educated than many of our university graduates, just as the average farmer in the backwoods is better educated to-day. The Indian and the farmer may not know much in terms of recorded information, but they can think their problems out for themselves. They have to, or they perish. Probably that is why most of the big men of the world come from small places, where they had to learn things for themselves and acquired the ability to think in the process. Probably that is why the Scotch, having to struggle for an existence in their poor little valleys, have become the ablest single race in the world.

If any proof is needed that our whole conception of education is cock-eyed, just look at the educated peoples of the world to-day, and see what they are doing. Look at Germany, the most highly educated of all nations, which precipitated the World War, with the full co-operation of organized education and now has precipitated another monstrosity; while from among the most uneducated people, the Russians, is coming something which may not suit us, but has an unquestionable greatness about it.

A good argument could be made for the proposition that the present generation thinks less than any generation in history, because its thinking is largely done for it by a few clever fellows. The rest of us just push the buttons and turn on the taps and imitations that we are civilized. If our ability to think were equal to our store of useless knowledge, we should have thought our way out of the present mess long ago.

JUST AHEAD

IT IS not likely, I suppose, that you have a plum tree fifty years old. That is a great mistake. Every home should have a plum tree fifty years old to keep it informed on what is happening. To-day, for example, we consulted our big plum tree and it told us as clearly as could be that we should have an early spring, only a few short weeks hence. We could tell that from the swelling round buds on the plum trees, now fringed with a thin shade of pink buds which ordinarily would not be in this state until late February.

This is alarming indeed. There is so much to be done before spring, so little time to do it that, as usual, we are in our mid-winter panic out here. There are trees to be moved about in the garden, shrubs to be re-planted, fruit trees to be pruned and sprayed, new lawns to be laid out, and the rose garden. As usual, we have advanced in this work from disorder to confusion and from confusion to chaos until the whole garden seems uprooted—trees scattered broadcast, shrubs huddled together, avalanches of rock and earth rolling in at intervals.

It always starts in a small, modest way about this time of year. We go out to move a shrub or two to a better position but, as in a vast game of checkers, we find that one move necessitates another and, before we realize it, the whole countryside is uprooted. Of course, it is great fun, but a grave responsibility to find a home for all the garden family. They will grow, but the space available continues to stand still, until we are at our wits' end to know where to put them all.

Only a few years ago our tiny trees and shrubs looked frail and pathetic in the great beds that we had cleared for them in this primeval wilderness, and Mr. Puddbury smiled contemptuously. Now we find ourselves trying to clear away a forest of our own planting, which surges on us from all sides and threatens to cut us off from the world altogether. And Mr. Puddbury complains that we are beginning to shade his chicken yard and threaten the health of his Rhode Island Reds, and Mr. Beak says he hopes we may have a good big forest fire out this way one of these days.

Meanwhile the plum tree's tiny round buds are getting rounder and pinker every day. The time is short. Spring will probably catch us with our work half done, as it always does; but the great thing about gardening is that there is always another spring, always another winter when you can move things about again. In the modern world a garden is about the only stable thing left.

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES
January 12, 1909
(From The Times Files)

Ratepayers of Ward Three filled the Odd Fellows' Hall, Fernwood Road, last evening at a joint meeting called by ex-Mayor Morley, at which candidates for all the officers were heard. J. L. Beckwith was asked to take the chair and presided in a very impartial manner.

Next Thursday the citizens of Victoria will have an opportunity of saying whether they favor making a grant of $7,500 towards the Victoria Tourist Association during the coming year. In all questions of spending money there is, naturally, some difference of opinion on the subject.

The earthquake which was felt here yesterday afternoon, in common with other places along the northwest Pacific Coast, was recorded on the seismograph at the meteorological station. The exact time of it was 3.53 yesterday afternoon, and the swing of the pendulum in the instrument was five millimetres, or about three-tenths of an inch. There were no preliminary tremors, as is sometimes noted.

In this year of grace, 1909, occurs one of the most notable centennials in the history of Canada. It is the year which comes the one hundredth anniversary of steam navigation in British America. Incidentally, it is also the centennial of the first steamer ever built and completed in the world outside of Great Britain. It is true that Fulton built and launched the Clermont on the Hudson in 1807, and that she began to make regular trips in 1808, but the engines and boilers for the pioneer steamer of the United States were made by the Boulton and Watt firm in England.

One of the Weir steamers, the Boverie, passed up to Crofton yesterday with a cargo of 3,500 tons of coke from Australia. This was ordered some time ago, when it was intended to blow in the smelter about the beginning of the year.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

TO SING ANEW

Song must come waiting
From out the heart.
There's no compelling
Old notes to start.

Lies must bubble
Like limpid streams,
No sign to trouble
Their shining dreams.

No carols cover
A sorcerer's moon.
Quick ears discover
Pain's undertone.

So you, when bringing
Gladness again,
Set my lips singing
Their old refrain.
Yes, you have taught me
To sing anew.
Dear, since you brought me
Joys deep and true!

Other People's Views

THE "ARYAN MAN"

To the Editor:—Your editorial of this evening on "The Aryan Man" is no doubt, just what we needed to be, a timely and fitting reminder to Adolf Hitler's racial fallacy. So far as Professor Child's theory applies to "culture" alone, it will be agreed by ethnologists generally that it is developed from social contacts, quite apart from hereditary traits or racial origins. As to whether he is justified in coupling up "language" in the same category, that is a moot question, which he does not discuss in the brief excerpt you have quoted. The bearing of language upon racial origins is a very live question to-day among a number of cults who have seen a cause to champion and it would be worth while to have the professor's views upon the subject.

It is, however, solely on the relation of culture to the problem of the German resurgence that I would like to add a brief word. I am sure that we will agree with me, sir, that we can well afford to be patient with Germany during the present crisis. I do not mean that we should close our eyes and keep our mouths shut, but that we keep our minds and hearts open, too, and that while we are awake to perceive and condemn the iniquities of the present regime and provide safeguards when and where necessary, we should cherish the belief that the situation in that land to-day is but a passing phase in the life of a great people, the backwash of that "Kultur" cult which has bedeviled the country for the past generation. The one consideration on which we must rest our hopes is that the plight in which they find themselves to-day is not the natural development of hereditary traits, but a human exorcism, the result of ethnic affiliations, propagated under hot-house conditions. Maybe this was not what was in the mind of the professor; still, it is a fair and necessary implication of his argument. Congregations in Christian churches do not realize how much they are indebted to evangelical scholars in Germany for a better understanding of God's word. Ministers rarely stress the fact. All the same, they realize, better (Turn to Page 18, Col. 1)

Object To Boys Being Sent To Labor Camps

Women's Council Disapproves of System; Asks Their Segregation From Older Men

Public Health Work, Banking System and Citizenship Reviewed in Reports

While disapproving of the entire system under which unemployed men are gathered together in camps, the Local Council of Women at its final session yesterday afternoon endorsed the principle of a resolution, sponsored by the Vancouver Women's Council, urging that the authorities be approached in an effort to secure the segregation of boys under twenty-one into separate camps until such time as the whole system can be replaced by some better arrangement for the care of these unfortunate citizens.

In speaking to the resolution, Mrs. J. D. Gordon branded as iniquitous the practice of sending boys of sixteen to these camps, when they had homes. They would be much better off at home and continuing their schooling, she declared.

A resolution, also from the Vancouver Women's Council, urging the creation by the provincial government of a minimum wage for boys, was turned down, several speakers being of the opinion that, while in agreement with the principle, such a measure would be difficult of enforcement, and might work a hardship during the present economic period.

That British Columbia had the distinction of being the first province in Canada to inaugurate compulsory medical inspection of the schools was asserted by Mrs. V. S. MacLachlan, in her report as convener of public health. To-day recognition was being made of the value of pre-natal care in the making of a healthy nation.

She touched upon health preventive measures carried out in British Columbia, including steps taken to reduce the inroads made by communicable and other diseases. The use of toxins in immunization campaigns had greatly reduced the menace of epidemics of such diseases as typhoid and scarlet fever.

W.I. FRANK
Reference was made to the place in the community of the hospital and the public health unit, under which latter came the public health officer and school nurses and similar services.

DEBATE TO-NIGHT ON CENTRAL BANK

A debate, "Resolved that Canada should have a national central bank," will be staged in the Chamber of Commerce this evening at 8:15 o'clock, between J. H. Creighton of Vancouver, author of the well-known book on the central bank system, and J. B. Clearhouse of Victoria. The debate is being sponsored by the Local Council of Women. F. E. Winslow will be the chairman and Mrs. Harold Campbell will sing. As the matter is one much in the public eye at present, it is anticipated that there will be a large attendance of the general public.

committee on citizenship. She spoke of the growing interest in public questions evidenced by the youth of the country as a hopeful sign.

Mrs. Spofford reminded the women of their responsibilities as citizens, and recalled the remark of a Vancouver public man who deplored the apparent lack of interest in the operation in the putting forward of a woman candidate for public office instead of each organization trying to elect its own candidate and thus dissipating its influence at the polls.

Mrs. E. H. White, convener of the child welfare committee, presented her report, retelling the particular work done along the lines by the Victoria Order of Nurses. She declared that children of Victoria were healthier, prettier and even better-tempered than elsewhere.

TAXATION REPORT
The questions of government control of currency issues and of a national central bank were touched upon by Mrs. J. L. White in her able and exhaustive report as convener of the committee on taxation. She quoted several reports on the subject of privately-owned and national central banks, and cited arguments in favor of government regulation of credit and the greater control of natural resources by the people, of the people, for the people.

In this, she again maintained that the Federal Finance Act worked to the benefit of the banks, and from a contemporary journal quoted figures showing that the estimated value of note-circulation privilege of a typical bank submitted by the Canadian Bankers' Association, was $487,933 profit on notes in circulation to the value of $30,350,000.

After briefly referring to various forms of taxation imposed last year, she pleaded with the housewives to realize their responsibilities as voters and to make a close study of that wider sphere of housekeeping known as government. She reminded the audience of the public debate to be held this evening in the Chamber of Commerce, at 8:15, when J. H. Creighton of Vancouver and J. B. Clearhouse will speak on the question of a national central bank.

Miss Alma Russell, retiring president of the Soroptimist Club, will entertain at tea on Sunday, January 21, at her home in honor of Mrs. M. E. Crehan and Mrs. J. S. Sprout, who will be in the city for the annual installation dinner to be held on Saturday, January 20.

Mrs. Robert Stark entertained with two tables of bridge at her home on Begbie Street, Wednesday evening, when Mrs. S. E. Hume won the first prize and the consolation prize went to Mrs. H. A. White. The players were Mrs. E. Rice, Mrs. W. Rice, Mrs. H. A. White, Mrs. S. E. Hume, Mrs. A. Linford, Miss McCruther, Mrs. F. Winemaster, Mrs. Melville. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. P. Winemaster, 1012 Pinlayson Street, on January 24.

A surprise party was sprung yesterday evening by Mrs. A. Reid and Mrs. E. C. Mesher upon Mrs. M. Blanchard, 918 Cloverdale Avenue, in honor of her birthday. The guests were Peggy Singer, Annie Singer, and their mother, Mrs. Singer, Phil Machin, Mrs. Lindley. Throughout the evening cards were played. First prize went to Mrs. Singer; a picture frame; the consolation prize being won by Mrs. Mesher. Refreshments were served and an enjoyable evening was spent.

The Misses Molly and Kay Crowhurst, Kathleen Hall, Edna McKenna, Alday, Wood and Muriel Carter, members of the "Happy Hour" Bridge Club, spent a most enjoyable time Tuesday evening bowling at the Olympic. High scores were made by Molly and Kay Crowhurst. After the game the party returned to the home of Miss Muriel Carter, Burdett Avenue, where a buffet supper was served from a table centred with a silver basket of rose chrysanthemums. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Miss Kay Crowhurst, Fairfield Road.

Among the guests registered at the Dominion Hotel are: Mr. H. Douglas, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. D. Crofton, Ganges, B.C.; Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Skill, Vancouver; Miss M. Johns, Vancouver; Mr. M. Kjellander, Oliver, B.C.; Mrs. T. Page, Vancouver; Mr. C. W. Bell, Vancouver; Mr. W. McKee, Vancouver; Mr. Roy C. Wright, Vancouver; Mr. E. L. Fraser, Vancouver; Mr. V. J. Eby, Vancouver; Mr. James C. Barr, Vancouver; Mr. W. Halstead, Vancouver; Rev. Dr. J. G. Brown, Vancouver; Mr. N. Wright, Nanaimo; Mr. J. Sutton, Nanaimo; Mr. and Mrs. A. Fraser, Qualicum Beach; and Mr. U. G. Edwards, Seattle.

A most enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Smethurst, Dharma Road, Saanich, the occasion being the hostess' farewell party for their youngest son, John S. Smethurst, who left on Sunday afternoon for Kingston College, Ont., where he is continuing his studies. The rooms were beautifully decorated with cream and white and red streamers, and a lovely three-tiered birthday cake held the place of honor in the centre of the table. Games were enjoyed, the winners being: dumb hand, Mr. Tanner; raffles, Miss Alsworth; grunts, Miss M. Smethurst. Supper was served at 11 o'clock and a local three-piece orchestra supplied the music for dancing.

Weddings

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Friday evening, December 29, in the All Saints' Church, Vancouver, of Leone Isabel, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Jewitt of Vancouver, and Mr. Robert William McKenzie, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. McKenzie of Victoria. Rev. J. Leigh officiated and the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Colin McKenzie.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a beautiful imported French model gown of white satin combined with lace, fashioned on princess lines, with a floor length skirt and long sleeves, which were loose from shoulder to elbow and ended at the wrist with tight lace cuffs. Her veil of embroidered net cascaded from a cap held in place with strands of orange blossoms which clustered over each ear. While satin slippers were in keeping and she carried a bouquet of dark red roses and fern bound with white satin ribbon.

Miss Thelma Raper was the bride's only attendant, and wore a dress of pink tint d'esprit net with a blue wide-brimmed mohair hat. Her train was trimmed with blue matching color, and she carried a bouquet of pink and white chrysanthemums and fern, tied with a pink tulle bow.

A reception and dinner were held at the Lafondia following the ceremony. The wedding cake, which was cut by the bride and groom, was a masterpiece of artistry, and was decorated with silver tapers in silver sconces.

Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie left later by boat for Seattle, the bride traveling with a long coat and a blouse of cream satin. She wore a small hat of brown felt, with suede shoes and bag in matching tones. They are making their home in Victoria.

Dishwashing To Concert Stage

Swedish Artiste Becomes Canadian; Recalls Early Hardships in West

Canadian Press
Toronto, Jan. 12.—From dishwashing in a restaurant to a highly paid concert artist is the story of Anka Meyerstrom-Jed's success. Anka yesterday became a full-fledged Canadian when she was granted naturalization papers, and it was then revealed the hardships the young woman fought in western Canada to obtain her ambition.

In the west the young Swedish maid found herself in need of money. She donned men's clothing and worked in the harvest fields. Finally she reached Winnipeg in a box car and started her dishwashing career for a living. She worked for a while on reaching Toronto in a hat and dress store, but she lost the job. Then on to Montreal to return to dishwashing.

One day at a party her voice attracted a concert manager; now Anka is singing for a living.

Ma thinks the woman that old man brought to church is his daughter. Ma says the woman was too young to be his first wife and not young enough to be his second.

MISS JUNIPER PASSES AWAY

Former Victoria Supervisor of Domestic Science Dies in England

Word has been received in Victoria of the death in England recently, after a long illness, of Miss Annie B. Juniper, former supervisor of domestic science in the city schools, the news being received with sincere regret by the many friends she made during her sojourn here.

Miss Juniper was appointed supervisor of domestic science in the city schools in October, 1911, and under her able and expert direction this branch of the school curriculum was organized, thus bringing to fruition the campaign long waged by the Local Council of Women. The first centre was at Victoria West, other centres being subsequently established at George Jay, South Park, North Ward and Girls' Central Schools.

During the war Miss Juniper gave invaluable assistance in the local organization of the national food campaign, speaking on its behalf and planning menus for popular use. In June, 1918, she resigned from the local post to take up an important position as supervisor of household science in the schools of New Zealand, but after some years there returned to England, where she had since been teaching until ill-health necessitated her retirement.

The Local Council of Women at its meeting yesterday paid a silent standing tribute to her memory.

CALL OF THE WEST

By R. G. MONTGOMERY

The first mouthful convinced her that Stan Ball was an expert at frying trout. She realized, too, that she was very hungry. In silence they ate and drank. Stan sat close to her on the stone bed. The handle of his revolver was a scant ten inches from her hand as she laid down the spoon, but she did not attempt to jerk the gun free. Dona knew the cast-iron speed of the man she had to deal with. His gun hand would move like lightning.

Stan reached for her plate, and gathered up the few dishes. He turned his back squarely upon her and filled a pan of water for dish-washing. Dona sat still and watched him. She was not foolish enough to believe that this was her chance. She would wait for a better opening, one that was sure.

Stan washed the dishes and put them away carefully. Then he sat down on the slab of stone that had served as a table, with deliberate care he alighted a little tobacco in a cigarette paper and rolled a smoke.

Dona moved slightly. A picture fastened up on the bare stone wall caught her eyes. It was a photograph of herself, taken when she was at finishing school. Her eyes flashed but she did not say anything. Ball saw that she was looking at the picture and a thin smile parted his lips.

"My most prized possession!" He spoke slowly and the smile faded from his lips.

"You take what you want, don't you, Mr. Ball?" There was a cutting edge to the girl's voice and a sarcastic note in it. "Even though it can do you no good."

"It has done me much good," Stan stated simply.

His answer angered her more than a bantering reply would have done. She sat very straight and her little chin came up stiffly.

"And these," Stan waved to a pile of magazines and several books, "are very helpful to a fellow who has to stay cooped up all day."

Dona's eyes flickered over so little as she noticed that he had helped himself to magazines and books from the shelves of the office building at Three Rivers. The books were all good literature and the magazines of the better class.

"You approve of my reading?" There was a light of amusement in his gray eyes.

"You probably haven't opened any of them," she answered coldly.

"But they make nice decorations," he insisted.

Dona shrugged her slender shoulders and refused to reply.

"You hate me and that is all right, but you are my guest and I want you to be comfortable and to be entertained."

Ball cast an amused eye over the stuffy erect figure on the cot. "I would suggest that you make yourself easy."

"I am as easy as any girl could be with a man of your kind about," Dona snapped. "I would consider it a great favor if you would go outside where you could watch the entrance and leave me alone."

Stan nodded and got up. "Make yourself at home. I will take care of my lady outside." He bent low to keep from bumping his head on the ceiling of the cave and disappeared.

Dona sat for a long time without moving. She could hear her cap or outside talk to the black mare. Cool air began to creep in, the cave, indicating that evening was at hand. Dona stretched her legs and tried to see out into the clearing but a curve in the driveway made it impossible. She sat back and gave herself up to bitter contemplation of her fate.

She was a prisoner but that did not worry her. That she was in the power of Stan Ball, a killer, did not worry her either. What did make her uneasy was the thought of her father. She remembered with an angry twist of memory that Stan Ball had shot her father and that Ball was responsible for her present plight. From the first he had been the cause of all her trouble. He had taken care of his horse and was back to see how she was getting along.

"Time to turn in," he said shortly. "We have a heavy day to-morrow if things break right."

Dona met his eyes with a level gaze. "I happen to be sitting up to-night," she said flatly.

"I happen to be sitting up to-night," he said and began to untie the scarf that was knotted loosely about his throat.

Simple Rules Prevent HEADACHES

The best way to prevent the only safe, sensible way—to avoid headaches is to obey Nature. Live a moderate life. Eat moderately. Sleep sufficiently. Get lots of fresh air, exercise and recreation. Avoid worry. And, once or twice each week, enjoy a refreshing, pleasant-tasting glass of Andrew's Liver Salt.

This last rule is extremely important. Even with the most careful living and the most regular physical habits, you will still suffer from the effects of incomplete elimination of body wastes. Thousands of people suffer from these causes without suspecting it. Occasional use of Andrew's helps your eliminative organs to function completely; banishes those nagging pains to new energy—keeps you fit—and corrects the conditions which cause headaches, indigestion, general body weariness, and the "liver" trouble.

Begin following these simple rules for health: Take Andrew's once or twice each week. Then you will escape those headaches which bother you so often now—and you will enjoy the pleasure of vigorous good health.

All druggists sell Andrew's Liver Salt. In bottles at 35c and 60c. New, large bottle, 75c. Sole Agents: John A. Huston Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Uncle Wiggily's New Game

(By HOWARD E. GARIS)

Early one evening, when it was just getting dark and Uncle Wiggily had lit a blaze in the fireplace of his hollow stump bungalow to keep out the cold, he heard a knock on the door. "Hullo!" he called. "Who can that be? I'm not expecting any callers!"

Although he didn't know it, he spoke this quite loudly, and Nurse Jane, who was in the kitchen putting away the supper dishes, heard him.

"Do you know how you can tell who is at the door, Wiggily?" the muskrat housekeeper called to him.

"No, how?" she asked. "That's how, Uncle Wiggily!"

Oh no you won't!

"My goodness," the rabbit gentleman gasped, when he realized that Nurse Jane had played a little joke on him. "You're certainly right! And that's just what I'll do."

It was a good thing he did, for another knock came, and when the rabbit gentleman opened the door there stood Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrel boys, and Jackie and Pettie Bow Wow, the puppy-dog boys, and they were hopping up and down on the doorstep and waving their paws about and blowing and puffing.

"Come in, come in!" Uncle Wiggily exclaimed. "How are you, and what are you doing on my doorstep hopping around like that?" and he laughed, for he was very pleased to see his young friends.

"We came to call on you!" Johnnie Bushytail told him, as the four entered the stump bungalow. "And we're hopping and waving and puffing because it's cold out to-night. Your mothers said we could visit with you until 9 o'clock, because to-morrow is Saturday. So here we are."

The rabbit gentleman and Nurse Jane were indeed happy to entertain the visitors, for sometimes the evenings seemed long in winter, and it was pleasant to have the company of the Bow Wows and the Bushytails. To celebrate the occasion, Nurse Jane made some hot lemonade, and they all had a fine time drinking it. Then Uncle Wiggily showed them a new game he had just thought of.

"This big chair with the castors on it will roll across the floor," he explained, "and we'll make believe it's a trolley-car. Billie, you can be the motorman. Stand over here, near the wall. Now the station is at the door—and you put passengers in and send them scotching over to the door—only the passengers will have to put their paws out to the chair. I mean the trolley, won't it too hard. Now who's to be the first passenger?"

"I am!" Pettie Bow Wow cried. "And here's my fare!"

He pretended to hand Billie some money, which Billie pretended to take, and then Pettie got in the chair.

"Al-l-l aboard!" Billie called. "Are you ready?"

"Ready!" answered Pettie. Billie gave a great push, and the chair scooted right across the room to the door, where Pettie stopped it by putting out his paws. He had a fine ride. Of course, the others wanted to try it, too. Billie was kept very busy being motorman. Then Johnnie took his place and Billie was a passenger. Oh, they had a fine time, all right, with Uncle Wiggily and Nurse Jane.

But just when Jackie was about to have his ride, the door began to open, slowly, slowly. Uncle Wiggily realized that he had forgotten to shut it tightly.

"Gracious!" he cried. "Who can that be?"

They all looked at the door, and suddenly the nose and face of the Bob Cat stared in at them.

"Oh, ho!" he cried. "What a nice party! I'm glad I'm in time—and now I guess I'll..."

"Oh, no you won't!" Pettie Bow Wow shouted. "He was now the motorman of the make-believe trolley, and had his paws on the chair. 'You won't do anything, you old Bob Cat, you!'"

And with that he gave the chair a tremendous push. It scooted over the floor on its rollers and hit the Bob Cat just as he was coming in the door.

"Wow!" he yelled, and was knocked right off the door again. He was so frightened he ran away, and that was the last they saw of him that night! So they all played the trolley until 9 o'clock, and to-morrow night if the picture-wire doesn't get twisted up in the lamp-shade and make the light go out, I'll tell you about Uncle Wiggily's speech.

JUDGE BROWN WINTERS HERE

Grand Forks Justice Enjoying Extended Holiday; Judge Calder in Hospital

Judge John R. Brown, of Grand Forks, who is staying at the Dominion Hotel with Mrs. Brown, plans to remain on holiday in the city until March. He is being relieved in the County Court of Yale by Judge John D. Swanson of Kamloops.

The winter in the Grand Forks district has been unusually mild, there being comparatively little snow at the end of December, and not sufficient frost to provide good ice in the skating rink, Judge Brown stated.

The people of the border town, the judge thought, would find conditions a little more difficult this winter, compared with last winter, when the city of Grand Forks spent $10,000 on improvements to the power dam on the Kettle River, which provided considerable work for the residents during the worst period of the year.

Grand Forks is a good fruit-growing district and the growers last season were encouraged by a good crop which was disposed of at fair market prices. The farmers are now growing more potatoes and have experimented with onions.

Judge Brown likes the climate here and is in the habit of coming to Victoria about once a year. He secured two months' leave of absence this time in the interests of his health and he is spending the whole of the holiday here.

Another interior justice visiting the city at the present time is Judge Fred F. Calder of the County Court at Ashcroft. Judge Calder recently underwent a slight operation to his hand and is now in the J. H. H. Hospital.

SUGGESTIONS ON TAX PLANS

Eight Ideas Before Real Estate Men at Luncheon

Eight recommendations regarding taxation and assessment were placed before members of the Real Estate Board of Victoria at its luncheon in Spencer's dining-room to-day, and after some consideration, were left on the table for further consideration.

That assessment of residential property be reduced.

That improvements should pay a larger share of taxes.

That the only sound tax on land is a rate on its rental value.

That reverted lands should be leased to the owner on a taxation plus interest on assessed value.

That assessment of residential property should be reduced to equalize conditions between Victoria and adjoining municipalities.

That a Greater Victoria should be formed.

That in considering projects Victoria should decide to what extent they will benefit other municipalities and arrange fair contributions from them.

That the recommendations be made to the board by J. C. Bridgman, on behalf of the board's executive committee, which had considered in detail the plan outlined at a recent meeting of the board by Lindley Crease, K.C.

Mr. Bridgman recommended the report be adopted and copies of it be forwarded to the mayor and council, referees of adjoining municipalities and to the minister, who will be in charge of the Department of Municipalities, the Union of British Columbia Municipalities and the Vancouver Real Estate Exchange.

Victoria Area Leads In Dairy Milk Tests

Inspector's Report Shows Highest Percentage of "A" Class Premises Here

Nanaimo Next in Line in Tests For Absence of Bovine Tuberculosis

The Victoria milk area continues to hold the highest percentage of "A" and "B" class dairies, graded after inspection for bovine tuberculosis, according to the report of Dr. A. Knight, chief veterinary inspector of the province, submitted to Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture.

In this district there are 40 per cent of "A" class dairies and 20 per cent of "B" class dairies, the report indicates. The proportion of "A" class dairies is more than half as much again as the general average throughout the province.

Victoria also led the province last year in the purity of milk grades as indicated by the report.

Nanaimo is also credited with 50 per cent of "A" class dairies but the percentage of "B" class dairies is much lower than Victoria and it has a larger proportion of ungraded premises.

Burnaby is next with 41 per cent of both "A" and "B" classes and 18 per cent "C" class.

Generally the health of dairy cattle supplying milk for human consumption throughout the province is shown to be excellent, according to the report.

According to federal and provincial jurisdiction the report deals respectively with the restricted T.B. free area of the Fraser Valley on the one hand, and the balance of the province on the other hand. Under federal test of dairy animals in the Fraser Valley, there was a percentage of less than 2-3 per cent reacting. In other areas of the province, 10,431 animals were tested with less than 1/4 per cent reacting.

Inspection of dairy premises carried out by the veterinary staff in both the restricted T.B. free area and the other districts of the province has been a decided tendency on the part of dairy farmers to make their premises comply with requirements of the Milk Act and its regulations. In this respect the chief veterinary inspector reports that the percentage of premises visited, "A" class certificates were issued to 32.8 per cent, "B" class to 37.5 per cent, "C" class to 15.2 per cent. There were 14.5 per cent of "ungraded" class and thus precluded from supplying milk for human consumption in the fluid form.

James Forman supported Mr. Landsberg's stand.

With those changes the motion, proposed by Mr. Landsberg, was seconded by A. E. Winslow, was passed.

A rider was added that license fees be given to the city. It was felt the city police would have to look after the premises.

WOMAN HIT BY SPENT BULLET

Mrs. W. Dallimore, Happy Valley, Victim of Curious Accident

Mrs. W. Dallimore, Happy Valley, recently suffered a minor injury to her foot when it was struck by a spent bullet while she was feeding her chickens. Provincial Police investigation believed it was fired from a gun some distance away, although it was unbedded in the instant and necessitated a minor operation to remove it. According to the report, Mrs. Dallimore had stopped at the fowl house on her property when she felt a sharp pain in her foot. She examined it on returning to the house and found a 22 calibre bullet in the instep.

A neighbor dressed the wound and summoned aid, provincial police being called in to investigate.

SAYS CABINET MUST OBEY LAW

Ministers Levy Wrongly on Pioneer Mines, Gen. Clark Argues in Appeal Court

"The executive council of the provincial government is bound to obey the law and if they disobey the law it is for the courts to correct them," said General J. A. Clark, K.C., counsel for the Pioneer Coal Mines, in continuing before the Court of Appeal here to-day his argument in the case over taxation imposed by the B.C. government upon the mine in the Bridge River district.

The appeal was taken by the Provincial Minister of Finance against an order for a writ of mandamus issued by Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald, which required the government to pay the mine $1,000,000 in taxes for the year 1933, which has resulted in the Pioneer now paying in taxes 42 per cent of its dividend to shareholders.

General Clark argued that by refusing to take the actual acquisition cost of the mine into consideration, the minister had violated the law of the province, which sets out that such consideration should be given.

Mr. Justice McPhillips declared that taking the case of England, and the British Parliament, it would be somewhat startling to think that any decision that body made might be invalid.

The manner in which Finance Minister Jones determined the acquisition or depletion cost is absolutely contrary to statute.

"In figuring the acquisition cost he absolutely refused to recognize the $1,000,000 the company paid for the property in 1928, but he took back and took the price paid in 1924."

Mr. Justice McPhillips asked about the value of the stock given for the property, pointing out that the $1,000,000 paid was paid in stock. He also pointed out that the 1,600,000 shares of a value of $1 a share, which paid for the property, were allotted to practically the same individuals who in the first place had sold the mine previously to David Sloan.

General Clark objected to any such argument, saying that the case was a separate entity. The authorities are quite clear upon that point," he said. It is expected the appeal hearing will be concluded this afternoon.

TIMBER MOVE WOULD AID B.C.

British Plan to Cut Soviet Quota Watched Closely Here

Reduction of the British quota on Russian lumber imports from 450,000 to 300,000 standards would be heartily welcomed by the B.C. lumber industry, according to P. Z. Caverhill, chief forester for the province.

Two effects which the move may have as far as B.C. lumber is concerned, are: increasing the export trade to the United Kingdom, which reached a new high figure last year, and a step toward stabilization of prices which at the present time are permitting the industry here only a "bread and butter" existence.

Price stability is especially hoped for in view of the intimation the British Government may interfere with the "fall clause" under which Soviet timber goes into Britain prepared to undersell any competition.

While British Columbia enjoyed its greatest lumber export year to the United Kingdom last year, the quota change may result in an increase over the figure this year. In the first eleven months of 1933, the province shipped 227,000,000 feet to Britain, as against 108,000,000 in the whole of 1932, and 81,000,000 feet in 1931.

This province is now enjoying practically the whole of the United Kingdom's business from the Pacific Coast, figures supplied by Mr. Caverhill show. Out of 275,000,000 feet shipped from the coast in eleven months of 1933, 227,000,000 went from British Columbia.

LOCAL RESIDENT LOSES JUDGMENT

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 12.—Judgment for $150 on a promissory note was awarded yesterday by the Supreme Court by Mr. Justice Murphy to Canadian Airways Limited against D. B. Martyn of Victoria. The note was originally for $300 and was given to secure the balance of a $400 account incurred in the hiring of a plane for a prospecting trip from Vancouver to Burns Lake.

Otto J. Weiler of Victoria was a co-defendant, but he had not been served the judgment, carries County Court costs.

Mr. Justice McPhillips asked about the value of the stock given for the property, pointing out that the $1,000,000 paid was paid in stock. He also pointed out that the 1,600,000 shares of a value of $1 a share, which paid for the property, were allotted to practically the same individuals who in the first place had sold the mine previously to David Sloan.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

Attitude of Toronto Maple Leafs Hard to Understand

Is Connie Smythe Trying to Revive His Feud With Art Ross?

Frank Patrick Appears to Have Been Placed on the Spot

OFFICIALS of the Toronto Maple Leafs in announcing their reasons for investigating a special meeting of the board of governors of the National Hockey League, to review the Shore-Bailey case, state they wish to know just who is going to bear the financial costs of dealing out of the serious injury to "Ace" Bailey. It is rather strange that Connie Smythe, a member of the Toronto Cougars, who suffered a broken leg in the Stanley Cup series against the Maroons at Montreal in 1926. Officials of the Victoria club secured the best possible medical attention for Anderson and saw to it that he was well looked after while laid up. Numerous other teams have done the same thing.

It looks like a breaking out again of the feud between Smythe and Art Ross, manager of the Boston Bruins. There has never been any love lost between this pair for many years and it revives on the least provocation. And the feeling between the other officials of the teams is not what one might call harmonious. And another angle is that Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal Maroons are attempting to put Frank Patrick, serving his first term as managing-director of the N.H.L., on the spot. There was plenty of opposition to Patrick being given the job, with Ross being his strongest supporter.

Majority of the clubs in the league agree that Patrick's decision in the Shore case was a fair one. Outlined the magnates take the Montreal Canadiens, the verdict was a just one in every way. Generally speaking, the public will no doubt be glad to see Shore in action again. It is not any secret that he is essential to the well-being of the Boston club at the moment. His return will help that way all around the league. Bailey has absolved him of all blame. There seems no reason why the controversy should be carried far into the night. Shore is considered by many to be the greatest single attraction in hockey. Whether the magnates like it or not they have to concede his rink packing personality, a very strong point in professional sport. Shore is a big factor in the league. Without him the Bruins are just another hockey team, as clearly proven in their recent games.

Throughout the entire trouble Shore has had a great backer in Ross, his manager. The latter has always been a hard fighter, a domineering figure. While the players fear him, they respect him for his forceful personality as well as ability. Nels Stewart, for instance, considers him one of the greatest hockey men he has ever hooked up with, and Stewart is no beginner when it comes to sizing up hockey capacity. A Montreal Maroon had it in for the few years ago Rose. He fought them tooth and nail in the committee room as well as on the ice. But time softens all things. The two clubs have smoothed over.

Bobby Jones continues to play the most amazing golf and absence from serious competition for three years does not seem in the least to have affected his game. Playing over his home course at the East Lake Club recently, he went round this championship course in 64, eight under par.

He should have broken his own course record of 63, as he reached the eighteenth green in 61. "Calamity Jane," his famous caddy, failed him, however, and he required three putts for his 64.

Japanese Cue Star Wins in U.S. Play

Philadelphia, Jan. 12.—Kinsey Matsuyama, champion billiard player of Japan, but now a resident of New York, won the opening game in the national three cushion billiard tournament yesterday evening by defeating Robert B. Harper, southern sectional winner from Denver, 30 to 36, in fifty-seven innings. Matsuyama had a high run of 6 to 2 for Harper.

Three games were to be played, Len Kenny, Chicago, meeting Charles McCourt, Cleveland, in the first afternoon game, while Earl Lookabaugh, Chicago, played Marc Cootner, Oakland, Calif. To-night Alfred de Oro, New York, is scheduled to take on Arthur Woods, also of New York.

CHICAGO-BOSTON PLAY STALEMATE

They all look alike to New York's astonishing Americans now. The worms that turned rolled over again yesterday evening in their efforts to get out of the National Hockey League's Canadian division cellar, holding the mighty—almost unbeatable—Toronto Maple Leafs even in seventy minutes of hockey.

The team that had won only three games in seven as the New Year rolled around, and were dubbed hopeless as playoff possibilities, were right in there to-day fighting for a position. Their 1 to 1 draw with the Leafs brought them within easy striking distance of Montreal Maroons and Ottawa, their opposition now in the battle for extra series money.

Rabbit McVeigh, sharing the limelight with Aurel Joliat, Canadians, these days among veterans who don't intend to fold up, stepped out again in a stellar role. As his teammates held the outfit that had whipped them badly twice before this season, McVeigh scored their only goal on Normie Himes' pass in the first period. Toronto's real came from scoring leader, Charlie Conacher's stick in the middle frame.

To 10,000 New Yorkers who recalled the 9 to 1 and 7 to 3 laces Joe Simpson's team have taken from Leafs this season yesterday evening's tie was the most marvelous of all the amazing things these Americans have done. It emphasized their rejuvenation, previously outlined in recent wins from Boston, Canadiens and Ottawa.

McVeigh's return to the heights, paced with his team's pickup, found him with two scoring points to-day. Enough to keep him well up with stars of the game who haven't been playing strenuous hockey for thirteen years.

Americans' prize upset and Rangers' 5 to 3 win over Senators in Ottawa featured a night of hockey that included two other games which failed to reach a decision. Maroons and Wings played a 1 to 1 draw in Detroit and Boston and Black Hawks went seventy minutes without a goal in Chicago.

The world champion Rangers were back where they belong, should be to-day. The two points they picked up in the Capital were just enough to bring them into a tie with Chicago for top spot in the United States.

Although Murray Murdoch, with two goals, and Cecil Dillon, who got two assists, led the Rangers scoring attack, the famed Cook-Boucher-Cook line was the real driving force behind the New Yorkers' efforts. They played the sort of hockey only that combination can play and collected five scoring points between them.

Syd Howe was the big scoring threat for the Senators, bagging two goals and assisting in the third. Both games scored in the first period. Rangers got past Beveridge twice in the second and shared another couple in the final period when Senators were getting one.

What Boston and Chicago lacked in scoring punch they made up in rough play that kept the 9,000 spectators in an uproar. Two majors were handed out, Joe Lamb, Boston forward, and Roger Jenkins, Hawk defenseman, drawing them for trading punches in the second frame.

The puck did get in the net once but a goal was not allowed. Paul Thompson, Hawk forward, banged it into the net. The referee, however, ruled it out. The play was offside.

CONTRACTS TO N.Y. GIANTS

Several Members of World Baseball Champs Get Big Salary Boosts

New York, Jan. 12.—From San Francisco to turbulent Havana, with a lot of rural delivery routes in between, letter carriers are tilting back their caps to-day, wetting a thumb, riffling through the envelopes—and handing out the good news for 1934 to the world champion New York Giants.

Contracts to the kings of baseball's realm have been in the mail now over two full days and though Claude Texas, Meeker, Oklahoma, and Waldo, Arkansas, sound far away, the men in grey should have penetrated the fastness by this time.

If good news travels fastest, all the boys from Carl Hubbell, the tip-top southpaw, down to Dolfo Luque, the forty-five-year-old Cuban relief pitcher, have dropped what they were doing to read the figures on the 1934 documents Secretary Jim Toney sent them. Most of them will get bumping good raises to add to the world series.

There have been reports about town that Hubbell jumped $10,000 this mailing into the $20,000-a-year class.

English Soccer Teams To Engage In Cup Matches

Mighty First and Second Division Clubs See Action in To-morrow's Round

Glasgow Rangers Meet Motherwell

London, Jan. 12.—English Football League schedules are swept away to-morrow while the great battle for the cup gets under way in earnest. The mighty clubs of the first and second divisions all swing into the fray against survivors of the earlier rounds.

Sixty-four teams are in the third round proper—the forty-four clubs of the first two divisions of the league, three-third division clubs hitherto exempt, and seventeen victors of the previous rounds. Among the latter are two little clubs from outside the league—Wokington, of the northeastern circuit, and Cheltenham, of the Birmingham combination.

Classic of the entire draw is the battle between Tottenham Hotspurs and the cup holders, Everton, on the Spurs' grounds.

Luton Town, who humbled the Spurs a year ago, take on Arsenal, English League champions and present leaders.

On the eve of the big game Manchester United, of the second division, bring a big surprise yesterday evening with the announcement they have invited offers for nine of their players. The United meet Portsmouth, of the first division, to-morrow.

The Spurs players have all been playing golf and taking brine baths at Southend all week preparing for the tussle with the toffee makers. Captain Pelton has recovered from a recent injury but the Londoners will play safe by keeping the youthful Channell on at right-back. Everton's trainer has been working feverishly in an effort to get the famous "Dixie" Dean fit again after his recent leg operation, but it was decided yesterday he would not be good enough to get into the starting line-up.

Chelsea will have a hard task against West Bromwich Albion, which is fielding the same eleven that won the cup in 1951 with the exception of two men—Mace, right-half, who is retired, and Wood, outside left, who has been displaced by Robbins, the Welsh international.

ARSenal READY
The Arsenal, who have been training seriously at Brighton for the Luton Town eleven, broke camp yesterday for a day to attend the funeral of Herbert Chapman, their great manager, who died suddenly last Saturday. The gunners will put their regular line-up into the field at Luton. The latter, refusing to be overawed by the fine record hung up by Arsenal, have been training in the invigorating air of the Dartford Downs golf course, doing gymnastic work, running exercises and a little golf. To pessimists they just say "Remember the Spurs."

Fulham, preparing for their match with Liverpool, have been playing a day in brand new kit, and a day in their old kit. The club's new kit, which they will wear in the match, is a blue and white striped shirt, blue and white striped shorts, and blue and white striped socks. The club's new kit, which they will wear in the match, is a blue and white striped shirt, blue and white striped shorts, and blue and white striped socks.

Glasgow, Scotland, Jan. 12.—While soccer teams to the south are engaged in cup struggles to-morrow, the eyes of all Scottish fans will be on what promises to be the finest match of the season—a battle between Motherwell and Glasgow Rangers.

Motherwell, leaders of the first division, are only five points ahead of Rangers, the league champions and Glasgow Cup holders. Victory for Rangers to-morrow will bring them within play for the title.

The tussle takes place at Ibrox Park, the Rangers' ground. And while the leaders try to knock out separate encounters, will struggle for undisputed possession of third place. At present they are tied nine points below Rangers. Aberdeen is at home to the toughies Thistle Lanks team, while Hearts entertain Glasgow Celtic, which pulls an upset every once in a while.

PORT ARTHUR WINS

Fort William, Ont., Jan. 12.—Two major and fourteen minor penalties and plenty of roughness marked Port Arthur in a Thunder Bay Senior Amateur Hockey League game here yesterday evening.

M.C.C. IS DEFEATED

Benares, India, Jan. 12.—The touring English cricket team to-day suffered its first defeat of the Indian tour, beaten by the Vizianagaram's eleven by the narrow margin of fourteen runs in a three-day fixture.

Quakers Ready To Start Tour

Oslo, Norway, Jan. 12.—The Saskatoon Quakers' hockey team, Allan Cup finalists of last season, were ready to-day for serious business in their European hockey tour following an exhibition game staged among themselves here yesterday evening to show the Norwegians how hockey should be played.

A large and enthusiastic crowd turned out to see the Canadians, including the Crown Prince and Princess. The Canadian trade commissioner here, F. H. Palmer, referred and following the match Johnny Walker, coach of the Quakers, was presented to the Crown Prince.

AMERICANS AND BOSTON TRADE

National Hockey League Clubs Announce Important Four-player Deal

New York, Jan. 12.—Boston Bruins and New York Americans announced a four-player swap to-day in an effort to lift the American group and Canadian section cellar occupants out of the rut.

The Boston players will join the Amerks for the game in Toronto to-morrow night, while the erstwhile Americans will don the Bruins uniforms in Detroit Sunday night.

Coch J. Simpson said the reason for parting with Gross, leading scorer of the International League last season while with Buffalo, had been his failure to click with the American combinations. Simpson thought he would show to much better advantage under Bruins' style of play.

"Bullet Joe" wasn't sure to-day how he would line up his new charges against the Maple Leafs.

Bob O'Farrell To Pilot Reds

Cincinnati, Jan. 12.—Cincinnati Reds yesterday evening announced the signing of Bob O'Farrell of the St. Louis Cardinals on a two-year contract, as a player-manager for the coming baseball season, to replace Donnie Bush.

With O'Farrell, the Reds acquired Sylvester Johnson, native of Portland, and once called "the unluckiest style of the National League." For the two, they sent to St. Louis some cash and young Glenn Spencer, a pitcher obtained from the New York Giants barely a year ago.

On top of it all came seemingly well-founded reports that Dazzy Vance, the old mound veteran, also will exchange a Cardinal uniform for that of the Reds before the season opens.

Schmeling-Hamas Bout Appears On

Philadelphia, Jan. 12.—The promotional firm of Taylor & Guinn, yesterday, announced the managers of Max Schmeling and Steve Hamas had agreed to a twelve-round bout in Convention Hall here, February 15, and that players for the match were to be signed to-day. Herman Taylor, said Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling, had agreed to 50 per cent of the gate receipts for the fight, while the other 50 per cent would be split between the two fighters.

Canadian Bowlers Play in Ireland

London, Jan. 12.—The visit of the Canadian Lawn Bowling Association's team next June to the British Isles has been referred to an International Board of Bowlers' meeting in London to-morrow. The Canadian team is expected in Belfast, Northern Ireland, June 8, and wishes to fulfill an Irish engagement in only three days before leaving for the United Kingdom. The Belfast Irish Bowling Association, however, expressed belief the Canadians should stay eight or ten days. It was noted also that the British international matches will be held early in July at Belfast.

Ottawa Shamrocks Are Held to Draw

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Jan. 12.—After twelve straight wins in their European tour and no defeats, Ottawa Shamrocks were held to a 1 to 1 tie by the Prague Lawn Tennis Club team, yesterday evening, in a fast and exciting hockey match.

Are Women Less Happy Than Men? Finds They Look For Trouble

Dorothy Dix

It Takes a Paving-stone Between His Shoulder Blades to Make a Man Find Fault With the Bed He Lies On—But a Woman Complains of a Crumpled Rose Leaf Beneath 40 Mattresses of Ease

WHY IS IT THAT WOMEN, taking them by and large, are so much more unhappy than men are?

There seems no good reason for this since both sexes are equally subject to the buffetings of Fate. Both know sickness and suffering and sorrow. Both must endure privations and anxieties and disappointments. Both must struggle for work, and only too often see all of their hopes blasted and all of their efforts come to naught. Life is no harder for women than it is for men, yet men meet it with a smile and a jest, where women meet it with tears and lamentations and beatings on the breast.

Men laugh where women smile. Men tell each other jokes where women tell each other their troubles. When a man goes to the theatre, he picks out a musical comedy or an uproarious farce, but a woman selects a three-handkerchief play or something morbid and gruesome and decadent that leaves her with a nice-brown taste in her mouth and general depression.

Jolly men are common, but a jolly woman is almost as rare as a white blackbird. You seldom meet up with a woman who wears the smile that won't come off and who looks on the bright side of things, and when you do encounter one whose laugh is hung on a hair trigger and who is a born optimist, you will find that she is looked upon askance by her sisters. They consider her light-minded and frivolous and suspect that she is no better than she should be. They, somehow, feel that a gay woman is bound to be immoral.

And, on the other hand, they feel that gloom somehow connotes virtue, and that the more sunk in woe a woman is the more righteous she is bound to be. The woman who never goes to any places of amusement, who never reads anything but religious books, who always dresses in dull drab clothes, and who always weeps over her husband and children when she talks to them, is invariably spoken of as a perfect saint, my dear, though she may never have done a single kind or generous deed in her life. Many a woman's reputation for goodness has been floated on a sea of tears and nothing else.

Perhaps women's melancholy attitude toward life was acquired during the time when it was considered elegant and interesting for a female to be weak and helpless and given to swooning and semi-invalidism. "Men must work and women weep," sang the poet of that day, and tears became a sort of cult, and taking a dark-blue pessimistic view of the world the proper alant.

But however the habit of magnifying their sorrows and minimizing their joys originated, it still holds women in its grip. They still cultivate their tear ducts and extract the last possible of gall out of every misfortune.

A man can be happy over a few simple things—a good dinner, an entertaining companion, a well-played game of golf, a day's fishing, but for a woman to be happy she has to have every ingredient of pleasure under the sun, and then some.

We hear a great deal about unhappy wives and very little about unhappy husbands, yet doubtless there are just as many unhappily married men as there are women. Just as many men who have found marriage a disappointment and a disillusion as there are women, just as many men with mean, cantankerous wives as women with mean cantankerous husbands.

The difference between them is that when a man finds out that his marriage is a failure he doesn't let it wreck his life, as a woman does when she discovers that her marriage has been a mistake. The man is determined to be happy in spite of handicaps, so he fills in his empty life with his career. He seeks abroad the congeniality he does not find at home, and he charges the whole miserable affair off to profit and loss and tries to forget it.

But the disillusioned wife does not even try to find happiness in anything else if her marriage goes awry. She spends her time brooding over her misery and telling everybody about her secret sorrow until it becomes unbearable.

And even when the great tragedy of life comes and they lose those whom they love, it is women who make their grief the harder to bear by shrouding themselves in black that keeps their loss forever before them, and by avoiding all cheerful companionship, while men take up the burden of life and go on with it. It is men who have the courage to smile above broken hearts, while women take pride in "never getting over things."

Men never trouble trouble until trouble troubles them, but if women have no legitimate sorrows, they go out and borrow trouble. Which is the reason they never run short of something to worry over.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Closed nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dripping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal trouble of the ears, is hard of hearing or has head noises should give this combination a trial.

Famous Explorer Believes There Is Back Passage To Little America; Expedition Is Baffled By Puzzling Mystery, Says Byrd

Aboard Admiral Byrd's flagship in the Antarctic (via Mackay Radio, Jan. 12)—Spurred by the hope that an unknown back passage into Little America had been found, the Byrd expedition drove its flagship steadily southward to-day in an open sea.

The track of the vessel supposedly is barred to navigation by a huge ice pack off Antarctica, but nothing of it had been seen.

At noon yesterday the vessel's position was latitude 69 degrees, 2 minutes south, longitude 152 degrees, 20 minutes west, about 700 miles northeast of Little America and 600 miles west of the usual passage into the Ross Sea to Little America.

Three weeks ago the ice pack was encountered 187 miles north and sixty miles east of the present position and officers to-day wondered as to the present position.

"It is one of the most puzzling mysteries of the kind I have ever come across," said Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd. He pointed out that on his recent flight the 150th meridian just sixty miles east of the ship's present course, "the pack was dominant and there was nothing found to suggest a corridor as wide as this would be."

At that time I suggested the possibility of a back passage into Little America, but it was more a theory than a conviction," he continued. "I am not sure even now the next few hours may not bring us hard up against the pack."

If the vessel is able to go through to the Ross Sea on its present course, the long voyage to the known passage, of course, will not be necessary and much time will be saved.

At noon yesterday the vessel's position was latitude 69 degrees, 2 minutes south, longitude 152 degrees, 20 minutes west, about 700 miles northeast of Little America and 600 miles west of the usual passage into the Ross Sea to Little America.

Lone Woman Needs Food

Woman Waits on Lone Marsh Island, But Husband and Companions Are Believed Drowned

Ketchikan, Jan. 12.—Five men aboard the gas boat Nellie Torrey, missing since the craft left Wrangell for a fox ranch on Marsh Island on December 1, have been given up for lost, the coast guard cutter Alert messaged yesterday.

A severe storm began soon after the boat left Wrangell, and it has not been heard from since. The cutter reported it was searching the vicinity of the island for wreckage.

Those missing were: Robert McCracken, owner of the boat and the fox ranch; C. A. Darrow, Ed. Smith, Fred Kester and C. W. Field. McCracken's wife, left alone on the island, was badly in need of food, the cutter reported.

The high tide and the heavy swell caused by the gale kept parts of the pier awash and prohibited passengers on the Mirabooks from landing for several hours. Longshoremen and ship's officers were forced to wait their chance and then jump from gangway to shore.

Fourteen lines held the Mirabooks to the dock, and the Aldington Court had a fourteen-inch rope from her stern. The ship's gangway of the Mirabooks was awash and another gangway had to be rigged up from the dock to the after deck.

The tracks along the elevator dock at Ogden Point were further pushed back in the heavy seas that swept over them. During one of the December gales the tracks were pushed back several feet, and were badly twisted.

Loading of lumber aboard the Mirabooks was postponed this morning waiting more favorable weather conditions. She arrived here yesterday evening at 8 o'clock from New Westminster and will get away on Sunday and proceed to Vancouver. From there she will go to Port Alberni, then to Victoria ports and Australia.

Ships at the Ogden Point piers this morning had a rough time in the strong southwest gale and the unusually high tide, which reached over ten feet. More than double the usual amount of rope and cable held the freighter Aldington Court and the motorship Mirabooks to the docks.

WILL REPLACE MAIN BOILERS OF ESTEVAN

Replacement of the main boilers of the Dominion government light-house tender Estevan will be done here or in Vancouver shortly, it was learned unofficially this morning. The plans and specifications have gone to the Department of Marine at Ottawa and it is expected tenders for the job will be called in a few days.

The job will amount to approximately $60,000, and should it come to Victoria will mean a boost in employment among local ship repairing men. The boilers will have to be built in Vancouver, but the installation of them may come to Victoria. It is expected Yarrow's Limited of Esquimalt and the Victoria Machinery Depot, as well as several Vancouver firms will submit tenders when they are asked by the Department of Marine.

The Estevan will be kept in operation while the boilers are being built and the installation of them will be done as quickly as possible. Much of the decking and many of the cabins will have to be torn away in order to place the new boilers. This decking and housing will then have to be renewed. The ship will be tied up about six weeks or two months for the work.

Campbell, local manager of the company, who acted as host, spoke briefly and told some interesting stories of his life at sea when he was a young man. Mr. McCormack also spoke briefly, and thanked the guests for their goodwill towards the company.

The Aldington Court arrived here late yesterday evening and is loading 850 feet of Vancouver Island lumber for the United Kingdom. She is commanded by Capt. W. Camp, and will get away late to-morrow or on Sunday.

King Brothers, local shipping agents, who are handling the Mirabooks and the Aldington Court, expect the freighter Umberleigh at the Ogden Point piers to-morrow morning. She will also load lumber for the United Kingdom.
